It is certainly encouraging to see from reports published that the farmers are so well up with their work. The indications are that this will be a most successful year. It is estimated that the crop is further advanced than has been since '76. With good seasons, this year will put our people in better circumstances than they have been in a long time. Even if the seasons are not propitious, the good be-ginning, the thorough preparations so enerally made, will count for a great deal.

The Comic Opera, "Little Tycoon," was rendered in the Opera House last Friday evening before a large and appreciative audience, and the occasion was a most enjoyable one. The young ladies and young gentlemen sustained their parts well, and have been highly complimen-ted by many of those who witnessed the entertainment. The music especially was fine. Mrs. J. D. Maxwell, who managed the Opera, deserves much praise for the success which crowned her efforts. The Opera would bear repetition, and we hope it will again be rendered. We feel safe in saying another large audience would greet the troupe.

According to the usual custom the people of Broadmouth section met to decorate the Soldiers' graves on last Saturday afternoon, but aside from this custom they had a memorial service. The announcement having been previously made, quite a number were present, seated in the grove. The service was opened by some appropriate remarks from Mr. C. E. Burts. Th. first remarks from Mr. C. E. Burts. The first on the programme was a recitation by Miss Hortense Long, the title of which was "Memorial Day." Next was "Bingen on the Rhine," by Miss Ettle Latimer, and last was "The Soldier's Dying Request," rendered in a pathetic style by Miss Nannie Kay. After this a roll of those who had been lost or killed from this community was read the number of which was nity was read, the number of which was more t' an fifty. The people then proceeded to the Cemetery and beautifully decoratod the graves of those who were there in-terred. Those who had been buried in dis tant lands were not forgotten, either, for a beautiful cross was erected to their memory. We hope that this custom may be kept up for many years to come, so that other generations may learn to honor the memory of those noble and brave men.

> JAMES H. MCCONNELL. The Lesson of the Hour,

LANCASTER, May 6 .- There were more colored applicants yesterday in the office of the supervisor of registration at this place for certificates of registration in cases of lost certificates of registration than all who have applied during the last two years. The Republicans evidently are enjoying the scramble for office inaugurated at the March Convention, and they are preparing for the division in the Democratic ranks which they are led to believe has been created by the Shell Convention. If the Lodge or Hoar bill on the sub ject of Federal elections passes Congress, United States, ought to be more cautious, and stand firmly together. This little perty contention for office in the State, in the ranks of the Democracy, that is now started up is most contemptible in the face of the great danger from the rule ignorance with which we are now threatened. What difference will i make who fills the State offices provided we can maintain our white supremacy and preserve the rule that we now have? This is something upon which our people ought to ponder if they expect to remain free from the als of Republican rule in this State, which threatened our civilization for ten years after the war. The survivors of the Confederate army met here in considerable numbers to-day to keep up a union among themselves which is pleasant and commendable. There have been fine rains in this locality, and the crops are coming up pretty well. The agricultural outlook in this county at this time is good. The people are very industrious, and it would be a drawback to open a campaign of politics at this season of the year to draw off their attention. Let us have peace in the State, a prosperous crop, and we will all be benefited. The executive committee should conduct affairs so as to have as little agitation as possible.—

fore, and we are in better position to give our customers the full benefit of our many advantages in buying goods. We have secured the services of a RESIDENT BUYER in New York-one who is well posted on values, and who will be constantly on the look-out for Bargains, so as to enable us to quote lower figures than any other house. It is not by favor, but by merit, that we expect to gain your patronage, fully realizing that in these days of severe competition-

COME! THEY SAY

COME!

THE RACKET

COME!

Is beating the Town on STRAW HATS,

As for FLOWERS and RIBBONS, We can't keep them, so we must conclude we are selling mar-velously CHEAP. Well, How About TINWARE?

Who brought the prices down on this article of merchandise? Why, the RACK-ET, of course! ET, of course!

If you could hear the voice of all that would say "the RACKET has brought down the price on everything he has handled since he came," you couldn't hear your ears! We don't sell some articles at cost or below, and put on two or three hundred per cent on others. We don't put out such baits. If we wanted to give you anything we would give it straightout, Now, don't you know if we sell you an article at cost that we are bound to make it up on something else, (that you don't know the value of,) or the Widow and Chaps will be cheated?

So we propose to deal fairly and squarely—charge you a living profit on everything. You may rest assured you won't be hurt by the RACKET PRICES!

GOOD SEED

WILL SELL!

HAVING bought more largely then fully calculated on having plenty to run us, but in consequence of largely increased sales, we have been forced to make a second order, which is now in stock. We regret exceedingly the recent cold snap and its damage to the Gardens, but since it had to come, and we are in no wise responsible for it, we trust our custon where they are compelled to plant over, will continue to get their Seed from us. "Millo Mays" is the very best thing you can plant for forage. We have a limited supply of the Seed. Come early if you
